THE SUNDAY REST LAW.

Opinion of an Old Arizonan Upon a Mooted Question.

To the Editor of THE REPUBLICAN:

The Government of the United States was not founded upon any principle of morality or religion, but is essentially a political institution. Nothing in the constitution recognizes any God or any system of religion—on the contrary that charter of American liberty ignores both God and religion.

The founders of the Government had seen the effects of religious interference with State government in the old world, where the people had been deluged in blood for the pretended love of God, for countless ages, and determined in laying the foundations of a new government in the new world to separate religion from the State so wide that the danger of conflict would be remote. The most of American statesmen have read the fable of the Trojan horse and concluded that no such canine monstrosity should be admitted into our temple of freedom, whether it contained priests in petticoats or persons in pantalons.

The Government of the United States or of any State, Territory or municipality may provide for a day of rest as a police or sanitary regulation; but any attempt to legalize a day of religious observance is a positive rebellion against the fundamental principles of government. The day has passed when Egyptian, Jewish or Roman priests can command the people in the name of the government united with the name of God; and if it ever comes again this country will be deluged in blood. Christ settled this question to the satisfaction of any true believers in his divine doctrines on the legality of paying Roman coinage into the Jewish treasury; and persons who are better than Christ at this day are scarce. And it may be said without offence that law makers who are wiser than the founders of the government are not abundant. The American people cannot keep religion and politics "out of the soup," but a mixture of these ingredients is impalpable to every patriot.

PHOENIX, December 31, 1890.

Pima County.

From the Tucson Citizen.

Thomas Driscoll, the cattleman, reports that cattle are being held through this portion of the country for 2 cents a pound, and that no sales are likely to be made for a lower figure. Cattle in general are beginning to thin down a trifle, owing to the late rains having washed the nutriment out of the dry grass on the prairie. Grass and weeds are beginning to peep through from the late rain. The cattle are again coming to the ranches for water, the supply from the water holes having dried up. Rain is much needed.

A shipment of cattle was made yesterday by Charleau Bros. & Samanigo to Los Angeles. The cattle were sold to Frank Parker, and consists of 116 head of steers and fifty calves. The stock came from Canadodora ranch thirty miles north of town and are fat and in splendid condition, averaging 875 pounds each. Two steers among the drove were monsters, one weighing 1460 pounds the other over 1300 pounds. These showed what Arizona can do as a stock country, as they were mountain fed and wild as deer. The band filled six cars, and were sold for $1.85 per hundred.

From the Tucson Star.

The amount of ore which is now being shipped out of Pima County daily, would keep a large reduction works in steady employment, and as these shipments are steadily increasing with the development of the mines, there is good reason to believe that during next year the shipments from Pima County alone will reach from two to four hundred tons daily.

The coming Legislature will be Democratic. It has two-thirds of the members in both houses. It will be entrusted with the responsibility of making the Democratic party of Arizona as a perfect Gibraltar of strength by good legislation; such legislation as will receive the sanction of the people; such legislation as will tell in good results for the people. If the Democratic party fails in its duty, it will greatly weaken the party, and it may go so far as to destroy it. The Democratic majority in the Legislature is charged with a grave responsibility.

Coal Mining Victims Unearthed.

WILKESBARRE, December 31.—In the shaft of the Lehigh and Wilkesbarre Coal Company, at South Wilkesbarre, last March, eight miners were imprisoned. Two bodies were recovered today and the others will probably be found before night.

Two more bodies were subsequently found. The mine has been idle since the disaster in March last.

A Terrible Explosion.

CHICAGO, December 31.—A New Orleans dispatch says a terrible explosion occurred last night at the power station of the Louisville Electric Light and Power Company. The building was wrecked and several employees are killed.
